

PRESS ADVISORY FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

From the Gut presents Saturation, June 18th

One night ONLY: transformed space, art, sculpture, and sound. Detroit based creative collective From the Gut presents 'Saturation', a Full Scale Transformed Space in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. Bridging sculpture, flatwork, technology and situational ambiance, 'Saturation' celebrates the Summer Solstice through the theme of Energy Collectors. Incorporating concepts of space, art, sound, and ideas worked heavily in Detroit for nearly a decade, From the Gut now debuts in New York City. Existing somewhere between formal and renegade space, this free event brings together Detroit artists Dave Cole, Gwen McKay, Paul Biundo and Mike Reid with New York City designer Thiago deMello Bueno and From the Gut founders Heather Campbell and Matthew Shultz, now both currently residing in the San Francisco Bay.

Creating metaphorical Energy Collectors at the onset of the year's warmest months, 'Saturation' links the Summer Solstice with a celebration of our region's peak energy absorption season. We exalt, and incorporate, energy gathering structures in a full scale transformed space of sculpture, art, DIY technology, sound, and ideas.
